“Breathe Easy” Air Treatment Solutions

by James Scott, Assistant Manager at Harvey Norman Rothwell

Air Purification - Most commonly air purification is a reactive purchase to a problem. People with allergies, Asthma and even skin sensitivities will most often seek a solution to a pre-existing condition. But why would people without these conditions consider purifying the air they breathe at home?

Air Purifiers do just that, they clean and purify the air in your home that you and your family breathe all day. From pollens to dust, bacteria's and mould/spore build up all the way to the odours left behind by your beloved family pets. Air Purifiers will cleanse the environment that you live in so that you can “breathe easy” knowing that the air in your home is free from any impurities that are left behind after regular cleaning.

Humidifiers –

If you experience dry and sensitive skin a Humidifier is the perfect way to relieve the discomfort of the dry seasons. No more static shocks, humidifiers produce a constant level of humidity to condition the air. Humidifiers can also suppress airborne viruses transmitted by coughing, making your home healthier, happier and more comfortable.

Dehumidifiers -

People in tropical climates know all too well the effects of a high humidity environment.

High moisture levels in the air can make your home environment quite uncomfortable. However the benefits of a Dehumidifier go further than just making you home comfortable, they also provide a range of health benefits making your home less hospitable to allergens such as dust mites,

Diffusers – Using a diffuser is one of the most effective ways to disperse essential oils in your home. Essential oils provide your home with numerous health benefits. Citrus to boost immunity, Peppermint to open airways or relieve headaches and Lavender to boost your mood and help you to relax. Three great examples of how essential oils can change the environment in your home.

PARENTS: IT'S TIME TO SWITCH OFF

Parents are depriving their children of vital interaction and life-development opportunities by failing to recognise how much time they spend glued to their mobile devices

In a study that puts parents under the microscope, Master of Educational and Developmental Psychology and PhD candidate, Carrie Ewin, says children are in real danger of losing their primary caregivers to mobile devices which can have long-term consequences for parent-child interactions.

Carrie conducted an observational study of 70 parents using mobile phones and electronic tablets in the company of their children at food courts and play areas in shopping centres. This involved detailed notes being taken by an observer sitting close to the parents and their children.

Parents were closely watched to identify how they used their devices while caring for their children. The way that children reacted when their parents used a mobile phone and how this affected their interactions was also noted. This included the tapping, swiping and speaking habits of parents plus their children's behaviour, body language and conversation.

"The reason for conducting an observational study was to help understand how parents use mobile devices and how kids respond, in real every day moments," Carrie said.

"Very little research has investigated this issue in Australia and mobile devices are now a staple in our lives so it's important that we understand how they affect parent-child relationships. Many parents honestly have no idea how much time they spend on their phones when their children are with them."

Early findings of the study show that of the 70 child-caregiver groups observed, nearly 82% included a caregiver that used a mobile device for more than 10 minutes. One caregiver was observed spending nearly two hours absorbed in their mobile device.

Some parents also missed signs of danger, such as their children falling or wandering off, and many parents offered very little conversation or engagement.

"One parent was so engrossed in their device – for more than 30 minutes – that they didn't notice their son hitting play equipment or crawling over furniture. Another caregiver didn't see their baby standing up and falling out of a pram," Carrie said.

"Another child was observed sitting silently and fiddling with a strap, without sharing any conversation, laughter or smiles, for 20 minutes until she tried to get her father's attention by giving him a hug. Even then, the parent still didn't look up."

A surprising observation was that a vast majority of children recognised their parents were 'busy', yet chose to not play with or use a mobile device during the observed period. Instead, they opted to play with their siblings or occupied themselves in another way.

However, some children attracted attention through provocative behaviours – including climbing over furniture, raising voices, calling out and aggravating siblings. Despite being well-intentioned, the majority of parents' responses were flippant or ignored their child's needs. Some parents remained silent for some time while their children were behaving poorly.

"There has been a lot of commentary about parents losing connection to their children as mobile devices take hold of their lives. This study reveals that parents struggle to engage with their children when they have a mobile device and often model the absorbed and distracted behaviour that children are criticised for," Carrie said.

"This research calls on parents to balance their device use and actively engage with their children during everyday moments like eating and playing.

"High levels of parental absorption with mobile devices may significantly impact parental responsiveness, non-verbal gestures and shared language. Parent-child language is essential for the formation of children's early language skills and also has many other developmental benefits such as bonding and learning to regulate emotions."

"Given the important role that parents have in the development of young children's language, social, emotional and cognitive competence, it is critical we understand what influences parents to interact positively and what might impede or distract positive parent-child interactions," Dr Reupert said.

The study will be completed in 2020.

HISTORIC CHANGE TO ABORTION LAWS

Abortion will be legal in Queensland for the first time in 119 years

In Queensland abortion is currently defined as unlawful in the Queensland Criminal Code and both women and doctors can be prosecuted. Abortion is only legal when physical or mental health is a serious concern.

The Termination of Pregnancy Bill 2018 was drafted based on the Queensland Law Reform Commission's detailed review of current legislation, and repeals on those specific sections of the Criminal Code which currently made terminations a crime.

Last week, in one of the state's largest ever legislative reforms, those 1899 criminal codes were scrapped in the Termination of Pregnancy Act 2018.

Premier Anastacia Palaszczuk said the Termination of Pregnancy Act 2018 will ensure women can access services and health professionals can provide these services without fear or stigma.

"This is an historic day for Queensland. The Palaszczuk Government is proud to deliver on our election commitment to modernise and clarify the laws around termination of pregnancy," Ms Palaszczuk said.

"We now join other jurisdictions, both in Australia and around the world, in recognising termination as a health matter.

"These changes affirm the Palaszczuk Government's commitment to respecting the rights and autonomy of women."

Health Minister Steven Miles said the new laws would protect health workers doing their job and going to and from work.

"Nobody should have to wonder every day if they are breaking the law, nobody should be harassed going to work, least of all our hardworking doctors and nurses who are looking after Queenslanders," he said.

IN ONE OF THE STATE'S LARGEST EVER LEGISLATIVE REFORMS, 1899 CRIMINAL CODES WERE SCRAPPED IN THE TERMINATION OF PREGNANCY ACT 2018

"These laws provide our doctors and nurses with that certainty."

Deputy Premier Jackie Trad said in adopting the laws recommended by the Queensland Law Reform Commission, the Parliament recognised their extensive work in drafting evidence based, best practice legislation.

"The QLRC has provided government and this parliament with the reform design that we need to decriminalise abortion and regulate it as a health matter for the benefit of Queensland women and medical and health practitioners," Ms Trad said.

"I am incredibly proud of what we have achieved today. The right of women to control their own reproduction, their own bodies is such an important part of equality in our society.

"I particularly thank the community that has been part of this campaign. It has been a community that has been assembled over the last 40 years."

Attorney General Yvette D'Ath said that these laws would finally bring Queensland into the 21st Century.

"I am so proud, as the Attorney-General of this state, as a woman, as a mother, to witness this significant reform which provides long-needed clarity," Ms D'Ath said.

"We've done this for our mothers, our sisters, our daughters, our friends. For women who have fought long and hard for the right to autonomy over their own bodies.

"Termination is never an easy option for any woman, and no one ever makes this decision lightly, but all women across Queensland should have the right to make the decision for themselves and without fear of criminal prosecution."

Queensland Health will now roll out a comprehensive implementation plan for health professionals.

This includes establishing a women's helpline, so that all Queensland women will have access to trusted information from Queensland Health about their rights and the support and services available to them.

The Act will commence on 3 December 2018

MANGO HILL WOUNDING APPEAL FOR INFORMATION

Do you recognise the vehicle to right? It is believed to be linked to a recent indecent where a man was stabbed at Mango Hill.

The 46-year-old man attended a property on Lamington Road around 12.30pm on October 10 when his vehicle was prevented from passing by a white hatchback parked on the roadway with a man standing beside it.

The victim exited his vehicle to speak with the man when another two vehicles pulled up behind, blocking him in as the man approached him armed with a knife.

Investigations indicate at this point the man lunged at the victim a number of times, striking him in the torso.

The victim was transported to Royal Brisbane and Women's Hospital with a serious but non-life-threatening stab wounds.

Police are appealing for anyone who may have seen a small white sedan or similar model in the area around the time of the incident to come forward.

It is believed the vehicle sustained a smashed rear window during the incident and was reportedly missing a rear registration plate.

Police are also concerned for the health of the man due to possible injuries sustained during the incident.

If you have information for police, contact Policelink on 131 444 or provide information using the online form 24hrs per day quoting this reference number: QP1801883527

HOW CAN I MAKE MY DREAMS A REALITY?

Hello Leonie,

I was very interested in your article about the 'Mean Time'. I think that my parents have always lived in the mean time and I don't want to follow in their footsteps.

I am 25 and I really would like to raise alpacas in the country and raise my family there. I have a few small qualifications in animal husbandry but can't seem to get any kind of direction.

How can I make my dreams a reality? And what should I avoid doing so that I don't end up like my parents who are always playing the victim in life?

Kiri/Aspley

Hi Kiri,

There are lots of people out there who just cruise along day by day, living pay day to pay day but somehow believe that their dreams such as owning a small business, writing a novel or travelling the world in retirement will just magically happen. They will go to fortune tellers and ask "Do you see a big lotto win in my future?" some examples of not contributing to making dreams become a reality include;

Dreaming of a great retirement but not doing anything to breathe life into that dream such as starting a solid saving plan, making calculated financial investments or depositing non- compulsory contributions into Superannuation. Dreaming of living in a big opulent home but not saving for a house deposit or realising that you have to work hard and maybe start with a little "dog box" house just to get into the property market and then trade up over a number of years until you can afford that big opulent house.

A big part of realising a dream is the formation of short and long term goals. As you achieve each small goal, you start moving towards your larger goal (dream). You put in the effort and you get a result. By putting a plan in place and making the required effort you give your dream life. Let's look at an example;

Let's say a girl wants to get into nursing in a major hospital and that's her dream. The first goal might be choosing the right subjects to study in high school, the second goal might be to get the required OP score to go to Uni, and the third goal might be gaining entry into the Uni of her choice by submitting a successful application. THEN begins a whole new set of smaller goals. E.g. finishing each subject on time and getting the required mark for a passing result. And so on it goes til finishing the course and gaining a placement at a major hospital.

In your case Kiri, you may choose to start with a small business course and then spend some time scouting the alpaca industry to learn all you can. Perhaps visit a productive farm and volunteer there to learn the process step by step. I find its best to just keep your eyes on the next required goal without looking too far ahead as it can get overwhelming. Just keep setting the next small goal and moving forward. There is an old saying that we hear in the life coaching business, "Failing to plan is planning to fail"

Now if things don't work out, you will have given it your best shot and then you can reset your compass and move towards a new dream.

Bank of Queensland Limited ABN 32 009 656 740. AFSL and Australian Credit Licence No. 244616 (BOQ).

It was the era notorious for hitting high watermarks, high shoulder pads, and high hair and now it makes its triumphant return to Moreton Bay Region

The 1980s were fluorescent bold, innovative and at times disheartening; the first mobile phone was born, Wall Street crashed, the Berlin Wall came down and - now Moreton Bay Regional Council wants you to relive all the hair-raising moments from that technicolour era in an upcoming exhibition provisionally entitled The 80s.

Set to open May 2019 at Pine Rivers Heritage Museum, the exhibition will look at four major themes in the 80s - politics, events, fashion and culture, and the home - building on existing collections and items sourced from the community.

Council is inviting residents to contribute their memories of the 80s through images, objects, and stories from the 1980s to the exhibition by holding a special Engagement Day on Friday 16 November at Pine Rivers Heritage Museum.

Moreton Bay Regional Council's Lifestyle and Amenity Spokesperson Councillor Denise Sims said the 1980s held many important milestones for Queensland and the Moreton Bay Region.

"This was the decade that saw Queensland's first Commonwealth Games and World Expo 88," she said.

"Many residents from our region had the opportunity to travel from Moreton Bay to attend these big events. It would be fantastic to see learn what their memories were of those events through pictures and videos.

BY THE POWER OF GRAYSKULL...

Contribute your images, objects, and stories from the 1980s to an 80s exhibition on Friday 16 November

"It's long been established that our region's growth is outpacing the rest of South East Queensland and it seems the same can be said 40 years ago.

"Throughout the 1980s, our region grew from a start of 133,000 people to over 200,000 by 1991. This is a rate of growth unseen since.

"By asking the community to share their own collections, we can learn what life was like in our communities back in the 80s.

"We want to see your photos of local festivals, activities and events held by council such as the Bicentenary as well as First Settlement Day.

"Fitness was huge in the 80s, while parachute pants and acid washed jeans were signature looks of the period. So, if you have any textiles or treasured clothing from that era be sure to share them with us.

"We want to learn about life in the 80s in this region and with your help we can relive all the fervour and excitement of that time through videos, photographs and any other objects or collections you have."

For more information on how to share your 80s photographs, items and stories please go to <https://www.moretonbay.qld.gov.au/the-80s/> or call (07) 3480 6021.

YOUR STARS

AQUARIUS. (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19): Dismissing details won't make them go away - especially when someone else is looking to ensnare you. It pays to read the fine print.

PISCES. (Feb. 20 - March 20): One solution won't fit all. You'll have to sift your way through the particulars and treat each one as if you're looking at it for the first time.

ARIES. (March 21 - April 20): Instead of responding to fire with fire, take the high road instead. Self-control in the face of increasing provocation wins admiration and respect.

TAURUS. (April 21 - May 21): You know those things you said that you'd get to one day? Well, today's the day you should get to them.

GEMINI. (May 22 - June 21): Loved ones are being flippant, but this may be good. You've been wound a little too tight lately and good-humored prodding is exactly what you need.

CANCER. (June 22 - July 23): Property concerns are your top priority for the next couple of weeks. Fight for your turf and people will learn that you're nobody's welcome mat.

LEO. (July 24 - Aug. 23): Don't let yourself backslide. You've just gotten your house in order and though things are still shaky, you must force yourself to carry on.

VIRGO. (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23): Ending a downward spiral may not seem like much of a victory, but consolidating debts is the first step to a complete recovery.

LIBRA. (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23): What looks like more trouble than it's worth soon proves otherwise. Keep struggling with that burden. One day it will become a boon.

SCORPIO. (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22): Resurrecting a friendship can feel stilted, but this person's worth it. You'll eventually find your way back to the bond you once shared.

SAGITTARIUS. (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21): You're thrilled to win a prize, but less than happy about sharing it. Be a good sport because next time it will be yours and yours alone!

CAPRICORN. (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20): You feel like you should play each card as soon as it's dealt, but wait to see what comes your way. You don't want to give away a winning hand.

QUEENSLAND THEATRE'S HEDDA

Date: 10 November to 8 December, 2018

Location: Bille Brown Theatre, Queensland Theatre

Hedda Gabler is railing against her life. She didn't marry bogan drug slinger George Tesman so she could play housewife in a monstrous Gold Coast mansion with white leather couches, bling chandeliers and endless rounds of Aperol Spritz.

She wants something much more. Now her old flame, Ejler Løvborg, is out of prison and off the junk. Is he about to slice off a piece of George's empire? Maybe Hedda can pull some strings to work this to her advantage.

Logie Award-winning actor Danielle Cormack (Wentworth, Rake) is the Hedda we've all been waiting to see. Melissa Bubnic gives us a local version of the Henrik Ibsen classic that is as dangerous and surprising as its heroine.

OWNER-OCCUPIERS JOIN INVESTORS ON THE SIDELINES

The value of lending to investors declined by more than 20 per cent over the last twelve months while lending to owner-occupiers was down by 7.7 per cent

"Given such a large drop, we should expect the market to continue to cool," said HIA Acting Principal Economist, Geordan Murray.

ABS housing finance figures for the month of August 2018 show broad weakness:

- The value of lending to investors slipped by 1.1 per cent in the month and is 20.5 per cent below the level recorded a year ago.
- The number of loans to owner-occupiers building or purchasing a new home dipped by 4.2 per cent in the month and is 13.8 per cent lower than the level a year ago.
- The number of loans to owner-occupiers purchasing established homes (excluding refinancing) was down by 2.5 per cent in the month and was 13.9 per cent lower than the level a year ago.
- First home buyer activity has been slightly more resilient with lending to this group easing back by a more moderate 0.8 per cent in the month and is down by 7.3 per cent compared with a year ago.

"Investor lending has now dropped to the lowest monthly level since mid-2013 which was the very beginning of the current housing cycle," said Mr Murray.

"Variations in investor lending have had a significant impact on home prices throughout the cycle. The timing of APRA's interventions in the home lending market were decisive turning points for investor lending activity and these turning points coincided with the turning points in home prices.

"At the time when APRA announced these measures both investor credit and home prices were growing rapidly and the interventions were effective in slowing both.

"Growth in lending to owner-occupiers, including first home buyers, initially filled the void as investors retreated but these borrowers are also now starting to retreat.

"The concern is that APRA's interventions, which were effective in taking the heat out of the market at the high point of the housing cycle, now represent a risk as the market retreats," concluded Mr Murray

Home loan demand fell in August, according to new data from the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS), suggesting that the housing market's ongoing correction continues.

The latest Housing Finance data from the ABS reveals that, in seasonally adjusted terms, 51,266 home loans were approved throughout August – down 2.1% from the month prior.

"In August we saw a decline in the number and value of home loans approved. Indeed we have seen the number of dwelling commitments fall by more than 10% in the last 12 months as the market has undergone a correction since peaking this time last year," said Mortgage Choice Chief Executive Officer, Susan Mitchell.

The data reveals that $30.8 billion worth of dwelling commitments were made over August, a reduction of 0.6% from the month prior in seasonally adjusted terms. This included a 2.7% drop in the value of owner occupied housing commitments to $20.7 billion and a 1.1% fall in the value of investment loans to $10 billion.

This data was supported by CoreLogic's Hedonic Home Value Index, which revealed that national dwelling values fell 0.3% in August 2018, led by declines of 0.3% and 0.6% in Sydney and Melbourne respectively.

"A number of factors have compounded, placing downwards pressure on home loan demand such as historically high house prices and tightened lending standards which have led to an increase in the cost of borrowing on some loan products. This ultimately has an impact on consumer confidence and the level of borrowing in the housing market, however, demand is relatively high by long-term standards.

BORROWERS STILL LOOKING FOR A BETTER DEAL

Home loan demand fell in August, according to new data from the Australian Bureau of Statistics, suggesting that the housing market's ongoing correction continues

"The previous Housing Finance data revealed that in July, there was a notable increase in the number of refinancing commitments – rising 3%. These commitments fell just 0.6% in August suggesting borrowers are still pursuing more competitive home loan deals," said Ms Mitchell.

Looking ahead, Ms Mitchell said that while we may not see home loan demand grow to the levels we saw this time last year, the Spring selling season could support demand in the short-term.

"This complex housing market means it has never been more important for those looking to buy or refinance into a new loan product to ensure they are seeking expert advice to get financially fit and increase their chances of securing a competitive home loan deal.

"A Mortgage Choice financial adviser can help coach those looking to enter the housing market, through a strategic savings and investment plan, in order to build their home loan deposit. When the time comes to apply for a loan, a Mortgage Choice broker can do all the legwork to find buyers a suitable loan for their unique financial needs," Ms Mitchell concluded.
